I am writing this e-mail to encourage the court to settle the Microsoft suit.

I do not believe the public has been damaged by Microsoft's practices. Not being an attorney, I do not understand all the nuisances of the case, but being a private citizen it does seem to me this case is being fueled by Microsoft's competitors. I also will add I am writing this e-mail on an Apple computer. My concern the reason Microsoft is being singled out is because they have not played the political game as well as they might have. I find that a sad commentary on our justice system. In closing I would think it would behoove the justice system to investigate Enron where many have been seriously financially damaged. Thank you for reading my comments. Mary Bush
